Are Jesus and God the same person?

The Church teaches that the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit are one being, but you'd never know it to read the Bible or hear our prayers. Jesus talks to God ("Father, forgive them, they know not what they do"). Some of our prayers address Jesus, while others address God or the Holy Spirit separately. Can you explain this?

Since the time of Christ, we've wrestled with the interrelation of Jesus, the Father, and the Spirit. With time and the Spirit's guidance, the Church has discovered language we believe reflects some of the mystery we call God, and we've accepted the authority of that language.

When we pray the Nicene Creed together every week, we speak of our belief in one God in three persons. However, even as we say these words, we know we have more to discover about the life of the Godhead and the unity and relationships among Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, whom we have encountered throughout our history.

In believing that the one God is revealed to us by Christ as a Trinity, we have the freedom to confidently pray to any one person of the Trinity.

However, when we pray at Mass, you'll notice the most typical formula for prayers is to offer them to the Father through the Son, in the Spirit.
