What is a basilica?

What's the difference between a church, a cathedral, and a basilica?

The word church originally did not mean a building. It was a term used to designate the assembled believers. In the New Testament, church was used to identify those who believed in Jesus Christ and followed his way.

Later the term took on its modern definition: a building in which Christian believers gather for worship, especially to celebrate the Eucharist.

A cathedral is the bishop's church and the chief church of a diocese or archdiocese. The name takes its origin from cathedra, the "bishop's chair." The bishops of old delivered their homilies from the bishop's chair in the cathedral.

A basilica is an early form of church building used for Christian worship. This was especially the case in the western part of the Roman Empire after the time of Constantine (fourth century).

Today, basilica is an honorary title given to certain churches by the pope. Rome has four major basilicas: St. John Lateran (the pope's cathedral church, which we honor today), St. Peter's at the Vatican, St. Paul's Outside the Walls, and St. Mary Major. In addition, a number of churches in Rome and throughout the world are designated as minor basilicas.

Whether we worship in the basilica of St. Peter's in Rome or in a parish church, we seek to draw closer to the Lord in our worship and prayers.
