How should we deliver the Sign of Peace?

What is the etiquette for the Sign of Peace? I attend Mass alone and feel awkward as family members hug and kiss as though they haven’t seen each other in years, but ignore me even though I’m standing right next to them.

The Sign of Peace is a time to acknowledge Christ’s presence in the congregation. It comes immediately before Communion. It is not time for shaking hands with someone you haven’t seen for a while or for running around the church greeting everyone. It is time for wishing peace to one another before we receive the Eucharist as one body.

Remember Christ’s words: “If you bring your gift to the altar, and there recall that your brother has anything against you,...go first and be reconciled...” (Matthew 5:23-24). The Church’s guidelines state, “in a sober manner, offer the sign of peace only to those who are nearest” (General Instruction of the Roman Missal, 82). They also say that local conferences of bishops should establish norms according to the customs of the people.

It is appropriate for a husband and wife to kiss each other, or for parents to kiss their children; in some places an embrace is also appropriate. The important thing is to remember that Christ is present in our midst and to acknowledge that presence in one another. If you feel excluded, I would suggest you let them know after Mass. You can simply say, “I felt left out”.
